Team Selection

The training squads have been selected by a team of people representing all current BASA mixed teams. Selection has been a rigorous and much debated process over four meetings.

The training squads have been selected, and are printed on the back of this note. Please note that these are training squads, and not the final teams. This means 2 things:

1. If you are not in one of the elite training squads, this does not mean that you will not play in an elite team. If you train hard, and show the selectors that you have the right skills and attitude, then positions in the squads may change over the next month.
2. If you have been selected in one of the elite training squads, your position in an elite team is not assured. You must continue to train and show your potential.

Final teams will be selected and announced on Tuesday 2nd June - the Tuesday before the Nationals start.

If you want to change teams (ie from Mixed to Mens, or vice versa), or have some special circumstances you want taken into account, email thepanel@basa.org.au with your request.
